

CUTS OFF EMPLOYEES AND WANTS TO RAISE SALARIES OF HIS AIDES

The Tenement House Department informed the Board of Estimate at today's meeting that in pursuance of its plan of economy it proposes dropping twenty-nine clerks, seven stenographers and typists, five typewriter operators, two press servers and one messenger. Commissioner John J. Murphy, who is making these extensive cuts in the payroll, points with pride to the fact that he is effecting a net decrease in personal services of $44,313.50. The allowance asked for in the next budget is $725,692.50, which is $14,410.50 less than the 1914 allowance of $740,103.

Although the stenographers and clerks are to lose their jobs some of those higher up are to have their salaries boosted. The salary of the first Deputy Commissioner is to be raised from $4,000 a year to $4,500. The chief inspector is to be increased from $3,500 to $3,800; the secretary to the first Deputy Commissioner from $1,500 to $1,600 and one stenographer and typist from $1,050 to $1,100. In the executive offices also there is a request for increase of the salary of the secretary to the Commissioner from $2,000 to $2,500.

The Department of Parks and Recreation has requested for the expense of 1915 the sum of $2,592,648.25, which, it is claimed, is $268,967.92 less than the 1914 allowance of $2,861,616.17, a decrease of over 10 per cent.

DAVENPORT'S NAME STAYS ON TICKET OF PROGRESSIVES

ALBANY, Sept. 21.—The name of Frederick M. Davenport will remain on the primary ballot as a Progressive party nominee for Governor. Supreme Court Justice Chester so decided today in dismissing the action brought by Walter L. Rathbone to have Mr. Davenport's name removed on the ground that many of the signatures of his nominating petitions were obtained fraudulently and that many of the signers previously had signed petitions nominating William Sulzer.

The Progressive primary ticket will bear the names of Mr. Davenport and Mr. Sulzer as candidates for Governor. William Sulzer said today: "I had nothing to do with the attempt to knock Mr. Davenport's name off the Progressive ticket. The court action was brought by a lawyer who formerly represented the Independence League and in this case was acting on his own account so far as I know."

"I prefer to beat Mr. Davenport fair and square in the Progressive primaries without resorting to any technicalities. There is no question about my winning the nomination for Governor on the Progressive ticket and I shall have the support of Col. Roosevelt in the election campaign."

GOVERNOR WATCHES AS COMPENSATION IS GIVEN WOMAN

Takes Text From Victim's
Widow on Visit to Hearing
by New Board.

A bareheaded woman who sat only a few feet away from him rocking a year-old baby, furnished Gov. Glynn with the text of an address he delivered this afternoon to the meeting of the Workmen's Compensation Commission upon the prompt and almost paternal working of the Commission. All the Commissioners were present, the room was crowded with spectators and petitioners, and there were several high officials in the Governor's audience.

The woman, Concetta Ventriglio, had come to ask compensation for the death of her husband, Michael, who died of a fractured skull July 16 two days after he fell down a highway on a steamer lying at a Brooklyn terminal.

Gov. Glynn was in the chamber at the right of Chairman Dowling while the widow's case was being adjusted. It had been recorded that Michael had received $2 a day as longshoreman and the recompense to the woman had been figured on that basis.

As she could not speak English, an interpreter stood at her side while she looked wonderingly about her and rocked and patted the child she held. The commission awarded her $7.50 every two weeks, with $2.50 a piece semi-monthly for her two children until they should reach the age of eighteen. Her own payment was to continue all her life unless she should remarry, when she was entitled to a two-year final payment in a single sum.

The woman nodded her understanding and was about to leave when it was brought to the attention of the Chairman that Michael's wages had been $1 per day instead of $2.

Immediately the commission began a reconsideration of its award. There was a moment's pause and Chairman Dowling announced that Mrs. Ventriglio would receive $9 per week for herself and the children and that the undertaker's bill of $100 should be paid for her at once. The woman nodded in the same vague way and, with her baby bundled in her arms, crept out.

This was the last case heard before luncheon. When the door had closed Chairman Dowling introduced Gov. Glynn as "the author of the compensation act." The Governor said:

"I came here today to see this law in practical operation, as it is the thing in my life of which I am proudest. I first became interested in the compensation of workmen for injuries received in the course of their employment when I was growing up in a small town."

"I had lived on a farm and gone from there to a little village or town, and there in the course of years I saw the boys and girls working in the mills lose their arms and legs and then cast aside like sucked oranges because they were no longer able to work at their trades. I saw three injured boys and two injured girls I knew sent to the county poorhouse."

"It was then I determined that if I ever came into power I would write upon the statute books a law which would require the treatment of the soldiers of peace on the same basis as the Government treats the soldiers of war."

"I could not have come here at a better time than this to see that Italian woman who has just left the chair in front of me. I saw her receive a small award for the loss of her husband."

"Now, what would have become of that woman if there had been no law to guard her? There would have been a claim for damages, a haggling in court, a verdict, an appeal, and in the end she would have got nothing. She would have become an object of charity, perhaps."

"The most powerful interests were opposed to this law when I started to write it. I took my political life in my hands when I launched it through. But I'd rather be right with humanity than with the most powerful interests in the world."

"We are going to see about putting down the insurance rates of those factories which safeguard their employees. In July and August there was a marked decrease in the accidents through the State. This was directly due to this compensation law."

Gov. Glynn had luncheon with the employees of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company and there delivered a brief address.

Among those who visited the commission's chamber with him were Messrs. Walter L. Rathbone, Commissioner Lynch, State Superintendent of Insurance Macbrouk and C. L. Close of the United States Steel Corporation.

Mrs. Crain's Injuries Serious.

SUMMIT, N. J., Sept. 21.—The injuries of Mrs. Crain, wife of Judge Thomas C. T. Crain of the Court of General Sessions, New York, who was burned on Saturday, are serious, but probably not fatal. She is in the Overlook Hospital here. While canning peaches her dress caught fire from the kitchen stove. Her sister, Miss Ada Clark, went to her aid. Mrs. Crain has been spending the summer in the home of Benjamin V. White on Beacon Road.

The woman was rushed to the hospital but she died there in two hours.

WOMAN WHO KEPT BOY FOR TEN DAYS IS FREED

Had Been Taken Ill and Could Not Take Youth Home.

Mrs. Margaret Carlson, in whose home at No. 110 West One Hundredth street four-year-old Arthur Wiesner, grandson of Oscar Wiesner of No. 97 Schenck avenue, Brooklyn, was found last night after he had been away from his grandfather's home for ten days, was discharged to-day when she was arraigned in the New Jersey Avenue Police Court in Brooklyn. Mr. Wiesner refused to make a complaint.

Mrs. Carlson, who had been employed by Mr. Wiesner as a servant, said she had taken Arthur for a walk on Sept. 11, had decided to visit her husband and her own little boy, six-year-old Frank, at her own home, and had been taken ill. She had telephoned to Mr. Wiesner, telling him of her inability to bring Arthur back, assuring him that the boy would be right at home, suggesting that he come for the child if he feared to leave him in her care.

The grandfather was satisfied, but the next day he realized suddenly that he did not know Mrs. Carlson's address, and then he appealed to the police.

JEWISH NEW YEAR BEGINS; TO-DAY IS YOM TERUAH

It Marks the Opening of Year
5675 in the Jewish Calendar.

To-day begins a new year, 5675 in the Jewish calendar, and at sunset last evening the feast of Rosh-ha-shanah began, ushering in a nine-day period corresponding somewhat to the Christian Lent and coming to an end with Yom Kippur on Sept. 30, the day of atonement.

To-day the Jewish people are called to account for their acts of the last year. Trumpets are blown in the synagogues calling them to service, and the day is known sometimes as Yom Teruah, the Feast of Trumpets. The nine days to Yom Kippur are observed as a period of repentance and prayer. Synagogues are open day and night, and services are held at sunrise and at sunset.

Yom Kippur is the most solemn fast of the year. It begins at sunset the eve of the Day of Atonement and lasts until a new star may be seen in the sky the following evening, and then follows a great feast.

DRIVER DID NOT SPEED AWAY.

Boy Run Over by His Car Received
Proper Attention.

Six-year-old Albert Goddard of No. 1973 Webster avenue, who was run down by an automobile a week ago and at the time was reported to be fatally injured, is recovering from his injuries under the care of Fordham Hospital physicians. The blotter entry of the accident at the Tremont police station shows that Patrolman Bickelhaupt, who reported it, stated that the driver of the car had sped away after the accident without waiting to learn how seriously his victim was hurt. This was a mistake on Bickelhaupt's part, due, he claims, to the fact that he received his information second hand.

The owner and driver of the car was Patrolman George M. Bender of the Fourth Inspection District, who stopped his car and saw that the injured boy received prompt medical attention and then left his address with the boy's mother. The accident happened about 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Bender did not report it at the station house until an hour after midnight, and in the meantime the erroneous report had been sent to the newspapers.

SAVES WOMAN IN SURF.

Rockaway Park Man Seen Victim
Being Carried to Sea.

An extraordinarily high tide and a pounding surf broke over the beach along the Rockaway Ocean front to-day, but many persons, anxious to take advantage of the warmth and sunshine, went in, however. Among those at Rockaway Park was Mrs. Goldstein, who lives in Eighth avenue.

She went into the ocean with several other women and got out too far. A wave knocked her down and she was being carried out to sea when Daniel McIntosh of Rockaway Park, a strong swimmer, started after her. He brought her ashore, unharmed, and she was revived by first aid methods. McIntosh was exhausted.

SOAP ON HAIR CAUSES DANDRUFF, SCALP GETS DRY, HAIR FALLS OUT

Girls! Get a 25 cent bottle and try a "Danderine Hair Cleanse."

After washing your hair with soap always apply a little Danderine to the scalp to invigorate the hair and prevent dandruff. Better still, use soap as sparingly as possible, and instead have a "Danderine Hair Cleanse." Just moisten a cloth with Danderine and draw it carefully through your hair, taking one strand at a time. This will remove dust, dirt and excessive oil. In a few minutes you will be amazed, your hair will not only be clean, but it will be wavy, fluffy and abundant, and possess an incomparable softness and lustre.

Besides cleansing and beautifying the hair, one application of Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; stimulates the scalp, stopping itching and falling hair. Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

Most Ladies! You can surely have lots of charming hair. Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and try it.
